

Nesa Targhibi, MBA, Esq.

1-844-HOLBORN ext. 701

Background

As Holborn Law's founders and president, Nesa Targhibi is an avid advocate for her clients and a savvy entrepreneur.

Nesa immigrated to the United States with her family at the age of fifteen from Tehran, Iran, and is fluent in Farsi. She obtained a Bachelors in Business Administration from California State University Fullerton and a Masters of Business Administration from the University of Phoenix. After a successful career in business, Nesa pursued her dream of becoming an attorney at Chapman University School of Law where she was offered a merit scholarship. She earned her Juris Doctor degree with an emphasis in tax law in 2013.

In law school, Nesa worked as a research assistant to Professor Marissa Cianciarulo and a law clerk at the Law Offices of Sally Amirghahari. As a law clerk, Nesa gained practical experience in handling a variety of estate planning, immigration, and corporate governance matters.

Nesa's background is an asset to Holborn Law and its clients. With a business education and experience, Nesa understands her clients' concerns beyond those of the law. She knows the ins and outs of running a business. This allows Holborn Law to provide its clients with solutions that best account for their needs.
